

The Forgotten Front: The Eastern Theater of World War I, 1914–1915

Ed. Gerhard P. Gross, trans. Janice W. Ancker.

Lexington, KY: Univ. Press of Kentucky, 2018. Pp. ix, 388. ISBN 978–0–8131–7541–6.

[A notice by the editor, MiWSR.]

---

CONTENTS

1. Introduction: Hugh Strachan, “The Eastern Front: Geopolitics, Geography, and Operations.”
2. Part 1: The Battles on the Eastern Front. Stig Förster, “Introductory Remarks.”
3. Gerhard P. Gross, “In the Shadow of the West: The German Conduct of War on the Eastern Front Up to the End of 1915.”
4. Boris Khavkin, “Russia versus Germany: The Eastern Front of the First World War from 1914 to 1905.”
5. Günther Kronenbitter, “Of Bastards and Brothers in Arms: Practical Constraints and Resentments among the Central Powers in 1914–1915.”
6. Part 2: The Battlefields of Concepts/Concepts of the Battlefields. Jö Baberowski, “Introductory Remarks.”
7. Piotr Szlanta, “The Creation of an Identity for the Modern Polish Nation in the First World War, 1914–1915.”
8. Hubertus F. Jahn, “The Germans: Russian Perceptions of the Enemy.”
9. Peter Hoeres, “The Slavic Peoples: The Central Powers’ Self-Concept and Concept of the Enemy.”
10. Eva Horn, “All Quiet on the Eastern Front: German Literature and the Eastern Front of the First World War.”
11. Birgit Menzel, “August 1914: Alexander Solzhenitsyn and Russian Wartime Literature of the Early Years of the War.”
12. Ygor Narskij, “The Reality of War and the War Experience of Russian Soldiers on the Russian Western Front, 1914–1915.”
13. Hans-Erich Volkmann, “The War in the East of 1914–1915 and the Experience of the German Military.”
14. Vejas Gabriel Liulevicius, “From Ober Ost to Ostand?”
15. Part 3. The Culture of Remembrance of the First World War. Rainer Rother, “Introductory Remarks.”
16. Christine Bell, “War Exhibitions: Forms of Presentation of the World War for the Homeland Front.”
17. Kristiane Janeke, “Suppressed Remembrances: On the History of the Moscow City Fraternal Cemetery.”
18. Rainer Rother, “The Unknown Soldier.”
19. Gundula Bavendamm, “The First World War on the Internet.”
20. Rüdiger Bergien, “Prologue to the ‘War of Annihilation’? The Eastern Front of the First World War and the Problem of Continuities.”